You're putting food on the table

“I truly appreciate your help. I am a pensioner and I take care of my children, and the price of groceries has risen so much – it’s so expensive that I can’t keep up. Because of your help I can now afford my other necessities like medicine and insurance. Thank you so much.”

Your support meant we could award a grant to C Care to help Melbourne residents – like Peter and his wife, who are in their 80s – facing food insecurity.

“Thank you for your continued support. You have helped us to feed those who would otherwise struggle to get a hearty breakfast. We see upwards of 50 people each of the days we have the breakfast... At the moment there are so many people who need help, and they don’t know where to turn.”

Because of you we were able to provide a grant to Survivor’s R Us to feed the 800 homeless people in the Newcastle area with hot BBQ breakfasts twice a week.

Changemakers ensure no one is left behind

Changemakers provide ongoing support for greater impact. Your regular gifts can transform the lives of those who are struggling, and change your community for the better.

The past couple of years have been extraordinarily difficult. A pandemic, countless people out of work, isolation and disconnection negatively impacting mental health, soaring rates of domestic violence, families unable to pay their bills or buy groceries... the need is overwhelming.

Your support has been vital to help those experiencing crisis or poverty. You've helped feed, house and educate some of the most disadvantaged people in our communities.

What impact can your regular gifts have?

When you pledge to give a regular donation, you allow the Sisters of Charity Foundation to respond quickly when desperate families and communities need help. Your commitment lets us engage in more impactful philanthropy, invest in longer-term solutions and run essential programs with more certainty.

Why did you become a Changemaker?

Our longtime supporter Lou shares his story: "Some years ago on my discharge from St Vincent's Hospital I was reflecting on the high level of care I received, on the warmth and professionalism of all the staff and how fortunate I was to experience it. I knew the Sisters of Charity were behind it all so I decided to go to their headquarters to see how they made it happen and express my thanks. There I learned about their Foundation.

"It was impressive. Everything was about giving and compassion, but not in a sentimental way. I knew that if I made a contribution it would be welcomed and applied wisely. I am contented to make my small contribution regularly, and in my estate."

You're making education possible

“My dream career would be to be a primary teacher – but also have qualifications in counselling. Growing up, I have witnessed and experienced how teachers and support can change your life.

When I learnt I'd won the scholarship I was so surprised and ecstatic. I felt this big relief off my shoulders – to have support while I obtain my degrees is amazing.”

You're helping Nga Kim study a Bachelor of Arts (pathway to primary teaching) at Western Sydney University.

“I love working with kids. The ward is happy and bright, it's less clinical, and the nurses are dressed in colourful scrubs.

If I didn't have the scholarship money I don't know what I would have done. It mostly went towards paying off HECS, books and living expenses.”

You made it possible for Terri to get her Bachelor of Nursing from Australian Catholic University.

You're providing the essentials

“They are two brothers, who have left a very traumatic home, with domestic violence and other serious family issues. I’ve spoken with the foster mother today. She virtually had nothing for the boys in the way of clothing and shoes... Thank you so much for helping this special family. I am sure their lives will now be a little brighter.”

Your generosity made a grant possible to We Care Connect, an organisation which distributes children’s items to vulnerable families.

“We would like to say a huge THANK YOU for the generous donation of stationery packs. Each student will be ready to learn. The students who have already received their packs have loved going through them, looking at all the items, and wanted to get straight into using their new things!”

Thanks to you Give Write received a grant to ensure kids who start the school year with nothing have essential stationery items.
